

Introduction

Hello ! Greetings to all I am here to share my insights for the company sales performance for the year of 2011.

I appreciate TATA Group from providing me chance to gain insightful information from the data of store's Performance.

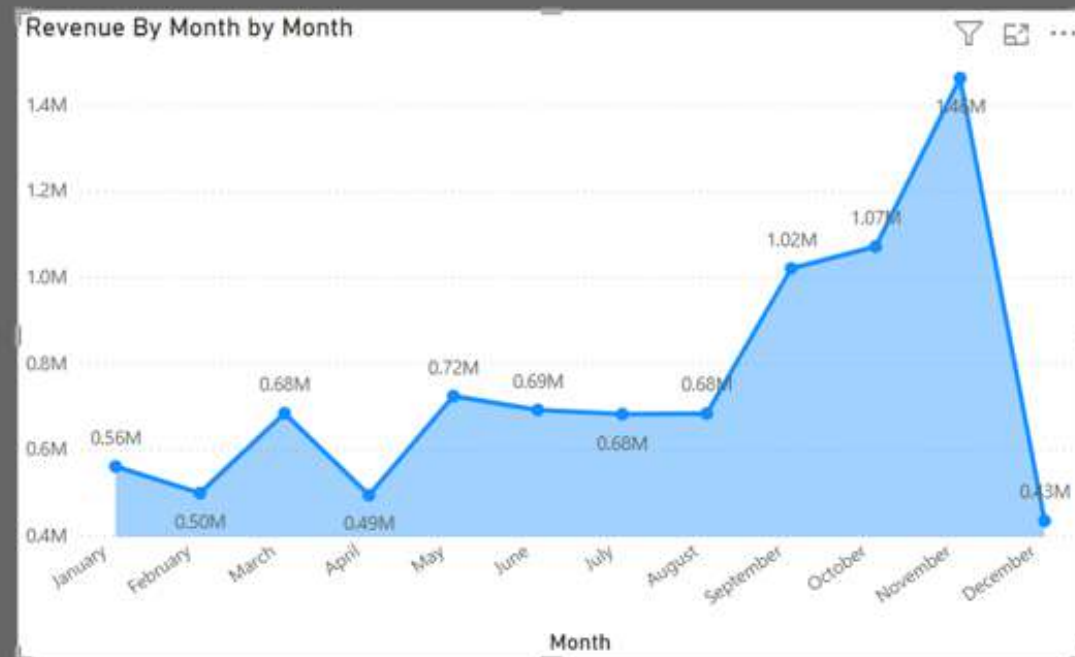

Thanks to CEO & CMO for questions asked to me and provide direction for the insights of the data.

Thought Process

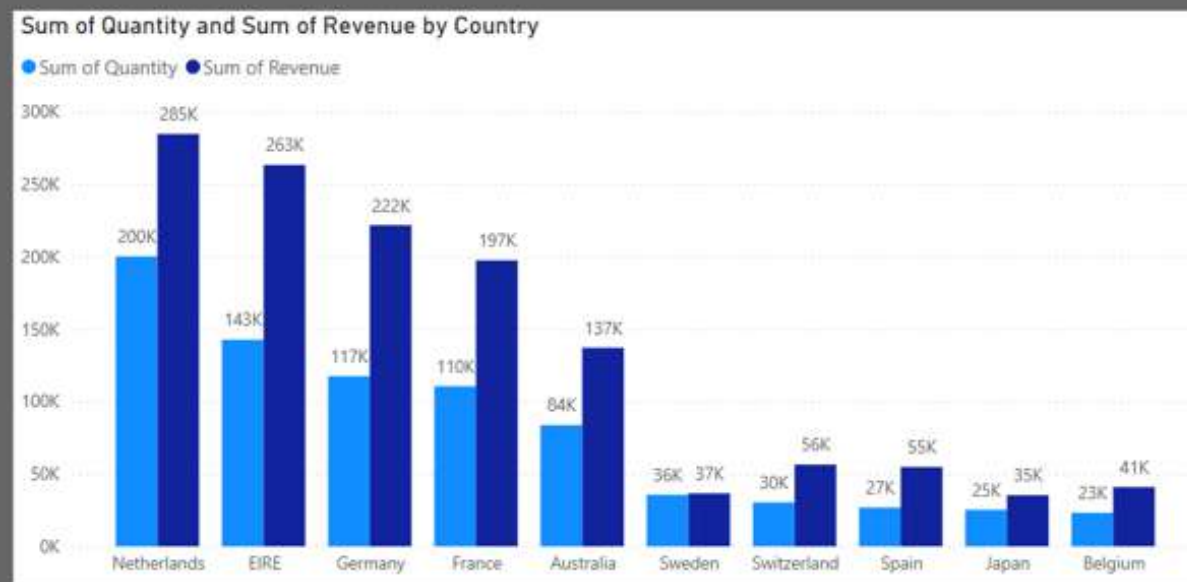

I assure you that I look all the necessary steps to ensure that this analysis is accurate and correct.

I cleaned up the data you provided by removing all the negative values in the Unit Price and Quantity columns and also filtered the data as required for all the visualizations.

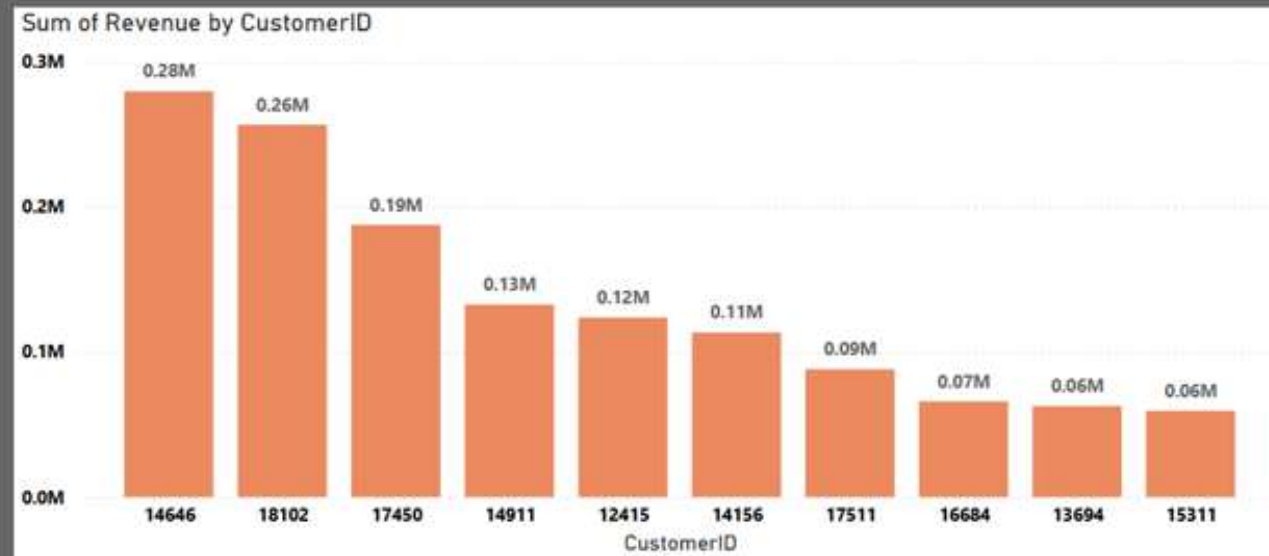

- The first 8 months had stable monthly revenue with an average of 685 k.
- The revenue trend from August to December how seasonally affects retail store sales.

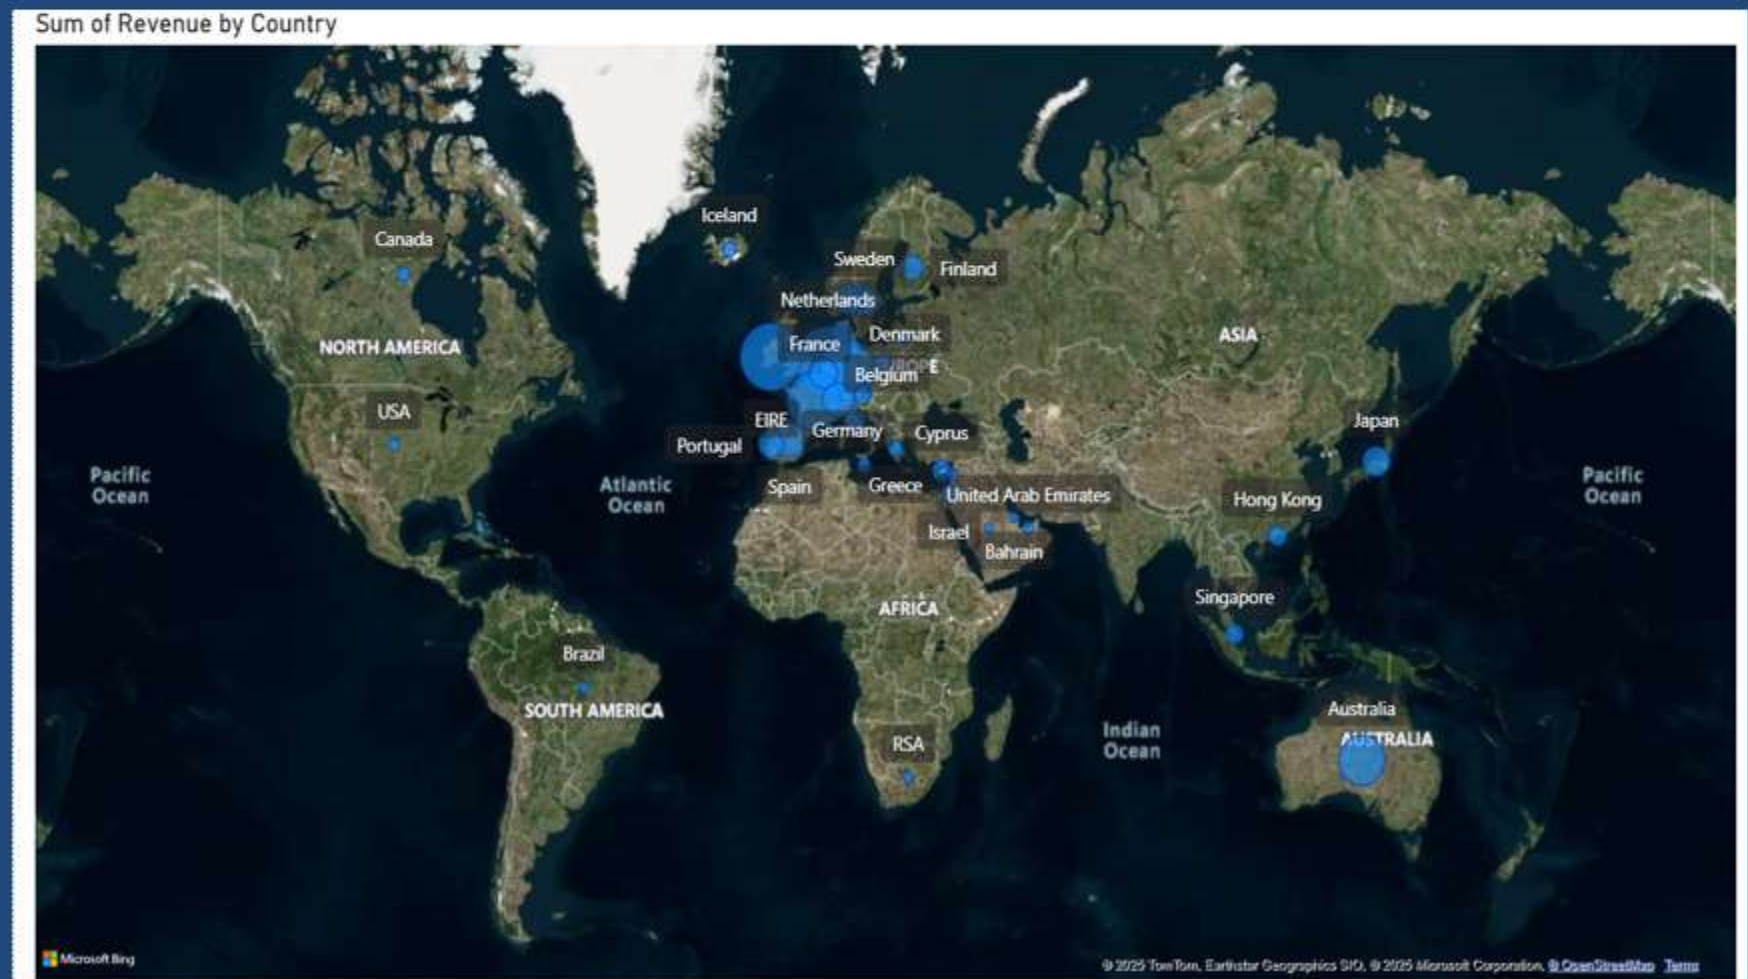

- This chart represents the top 10 countries in revenue and the quantities bought in these countries except The United Kingdom.
- There is no major difference between the revenue and the quantity of goods sold in these countries, showing a high purchasing power in these countries.
- These countries represent regions with the highest potential to generate more revenue that management needs to focus more on in terms of marketing strategies.

- The average difference in revenue between the top 10 countries is 15.8%.
- The company can aim to strengthen the relationships with these customers to increase customer loyalty and retention and ultimately drive more sales and revenue for the company.

- The map chart concludes by comparing the places that have produced the greatest revenue to those that have not.
- There is no market in Africa, Asia and Russia.
- The map also reveals that the majority of sales occur only in European market more and dive deeper into these region to maximize sales.

Recommendations

- The company should come up with strategies that aim at stocking and advertising seasonal products to maximize sales when the demand goes up.
- The company should create special relationship with the customers who order in big quantities in order to increase the retention.
- The European market has more potential to grow sales hence company should build strategies to maximize the sales.
